Wolfgang Amadeus Mozart

Don Giovanni

Opera in two acts
Libretto by Lorenzo Da Ponte

Monday, October 31, 2011, 7:30–11:00 pm

New Production

The production of Don Giovanni was made possible by generous gifts from the Richard and Susan Braddock Family Foundation, and Sarah and Howard Solomon.

Additional funding was received from Jane and Jerry del Missier, and Mr. and Mrs. Ezra K. Zilkha.
The Metropolitan Opera
2011–2012 Season

The 520th Metropolitan Opera performance of

Wolfgang Amadeus Mozart’s

Don Giovanni

Conductor
Louis Langrée

IN ORDER OF VOCAL APPEARANCE

Leporello
Luca Pisaroni
Donna Anna
Marina Rebeka
Don Giovanni
Mariusz Kwiecien*
The Commendatore
Štefan Kocán
Don Ottavio
Ramón Vargas
Donna Elvira
Barbara Frittoli
Zerlina
Mojca Erdmann
Masetto
Joshua Bloom
HARPSICHORD CONTINUO
Dan Saunders
MANDOLIN SOLO
Joyce Rasmussen Balint

This performance is being broadcast live on Metropolitan Opera Radio on SiriusXM channel 74 and streamed at metopera.org.

Monday, October 31, 2011, 7:30–11:00 pm
Mariusz Kwiecien in the title role of Mozart’s Don Giovanni

Chorus Master Donald Palumbo
Musical Preparation Donna Racik, Joseph Colaneri, Dan Saunders, John Fisher, Natalia Katyukova
Fight Director Nigel Poulton
Assistant Stage Directors Gregory Anthony Fortner, Sarah Ina Meyers, Louisa Muller
Stage Band Conductor Jeffrey Goldberg
Italian Coach Hemdi Kfir
Prompter Donna Racik
Met Titles Cori Ellison
Scenery, properties, and electrical props constructed and painted in Metropolitan Opera Shops
Costumes executed by Metropolitan Opera Costume Shop, Stephanie Arditti, and Anna Watkins, London
Wigs by Metropolitan Opera Wig Department

This performance is made possible in part by public funds from the New York State Council on the Arts.

This production uses fire effects.

Before the performance begins, please switch off cell phones and other electronic devices.

* Graduate of the Lindemann Young Artist Development Program

Yamaha is the official piano of the Metropolitan Opera.

Latecomers will not be admitted during the performance.

Visit metopera.org

Met Titles
To activate, press the red button to the right of the screen in front of your seat and follow the instructions provided. To turn off the display, press the red button once again. If you have questions please ask an usher at intermission.
Spain, mid-18th century

Act I

SCENE 1 The Commendatore’s home
SCENE 2 A street
SCENE 3 Open country near Don Giovanni’s home
SCENE 4 Outside Don Giovanni’s home
SCENE 5 Inside Don Giovanni’s home

Intermission  (AT APPROXIMATELY 9:05 PM)

Act II

SCENE 1 A street
SCENE 2 A courtyard in front of the Commendatore’s home
SCENE 3 A cemetery
SCENE 4 Another part of the Commendatore’s home
SCENE 5 Don Giovanni’s home

Act I

Leporello, servant to the nobleman Don Giovanni, keeps watch outside the Commendatore’s home at night. Suddenly, the Commendatore’s daughter, Donna Anna, rushes out, struggling with the masked Giovanni and followed by her father. The Commendatore challenges Giovanni to a duel and is killed. Giovanni and Leporello escape. Anna asks her fiancé, Don Ottavio, to avenge her father’s death.

In the morning, Giovanni and Leporello encounter one of Giovanni’s former conquests, Donna Elvira, who is devastated by his betrayal. Leporello tells her she is neither the first nor the last woman to fall victim to Giovanni and shows her his catalogue with the name of every woman Giovanni has seduced.

Peasants celebrate the marriage of Masetto and Zerlina. Giovanni flirts with the bride, telling her she is destined for a better life. But Elvira tells Zerlina to flee her suitor. She also warns Anna, who is still unaware of the identity of her father’s murderer and has asked Giovanni for help in finding the man. Giovanni, for his part, insists that Elvira is mad, and Anna and Ottavio wonder what to believe. As Giovanni leaves, Anna suddenly recognizes his voice as that of the murderer. Devastated but determined, she once more asks Ottavio to avenge her. He wonders how to restore her peace of mind. Giovanni, who has invited the entire wedding party to his home, looks forward to an evening of drinking and dancing.
Outside Giovanni’s home, Zerlina asks Masetto to forgive her. Giovanni enters and leads them both inside. Anna, Elvira, and Ottavio appear masked and are invited in by Leporello. In the ballroom, Giovanni dances with Zerlina, then tries to drag her into the adjoining room. When she cries for help, Giovanni blames Leporello. Anna, Elvira, and Ottavio take off their masks and, along with Zerlina and Masetto, accuse Giovanni, who is momentarily surprised but manages to slip away.

Act II
Having exchanged clothes with Giovanni, Leporello takes Elvira on a nighttime walk, leaving his master free to serenade her maid. When Masetto arrives with a band of peasants to hunt down Giovanni, the disguised Don sends them off in various directions, then beats up Masetto. Zerlina finds her bruised fiancé and comforts him.

Later that night, Leporello—still believed by Elvira to be Giovanni—is surprised by Anna, Ottavio, Zerlina, and Masetto, who all denounce the supposed Don. Fearing for his life, Leporello reveals his true identity before making his escape. Ottavio proclaims that he will take revenge on Giovanni and asks the others to look after Anna. Elvira thinks about Giovanni, whom she still loves in spite of everything.

In a cemetery, Giovanni and Leporello meet the statue of the Commendatore, who warns Giovanni that by morning he will laugh no longer. Giovanni forces the terrified Leporello to invite the statue to dinner. The statue accepts.

Once again, Ottavio asks Anna to marry him, but she replies that she will not until her father’s death has been avenged.

Elvira arrives at Giovanni’s home. She makes a last desperate attempt to persuade him to change his life, but he only laughs at her. The figure of the Commendatore enters and asks Giovanni to repent. When he boldly refuses he is consumed by flames. Elvira, Anna, Ottavio, Zerlina, Masetto, and Leporello appear, contemplating their futures and the fate of an immoral man.
Wolfgang Amadeus Mozart

Don Giovanni

Premiere: National Theater (now Estates Theater), Prague, 1787
Aided by his ingenious librettist, Lorenzo Da Ponte, Mozart approached his operatic retelling of the Don Juan myth from a point of view that is neither tragic nor entirely comic, but rather lighthearted, urbane, and ironic. Over the course of a night, a day, and another night, we follow the title character and his earthy comic sidekick, Leporello, through a series of encounters that begins with a fatal duel, moves back and forth between the humorous and the sentimental, and ends with the protagonist being dragged down to hell by a vengeful, ghostly reincarnation of the Commendatore. Buoyed by Mozart’s nuanced and insightful score, the opera still rings with psychological truth after more than two centuries.

The Creators
Wolfgang Amadeus Mozart (1756–1791) was the son of a Salzburg court musician and composer, Leopold, who was also his principal teacher and exhibited him as a musical prodigy throughout Europe. His works continue to enthrall audiences around the world and his achievements in opera, in terms of beauty, vocal challenge, and dramatic insight, remain unsurpassed. The extraordinary Lorenzo Da Ponte (1749–1838) led an adventurous life in Venice and Vienna. He converted from Judaism as a youth and joined the Catholic Church, where he took Holy Orders. He supplied librettos for the prominent composers of his time, including Antonio Salieri, and collaborated with Mozart on Così fan tutte, Le Nozze di Figaro, and Don Giovanni. Da Ponte migrated to America and eventually settled in New York, where he was granted the first chair of Italian at Columbia College (now University), and where he was instrumental in developing an audience for Italian opera. The myth of Don Juan appears to have first made it into print in the play El Burlador de Sevilla y Convidado de Piedra (“The Trickster of Seville and the Stone Guest,” 1630) by the versatile Spanish author and priest Tirso de Molina.

The Setting
The city of Seville in southern Spain, where Mozart originally set his opera, was already famous in his time as a mythical world of winding streets, hot-blooded young men, and exotically beautiful women sequestered behind latticed windows. In his new production, Michael Grandage places the action in an unnamed Spanish city in the mid-18th century.
The Music
Mozart’s score for this opera teems with the elegance and grace that marks his entire output, which is evident from the first measures of the ravishing overture. This musical refinement is combined with extraordinary dramatic expression. Don Giovanni’s famous Act I aria “Fin ch’han dal vino” (the so-called “Champagne” aria) is beautiful but almost vulgar in its graphic depiction of the character’s sexual obsession. The tenor’s ineffectual loveliness, on the other hand, is depicted in the long, languid lines of the character’s two ravishing solos, “Dalla sua pace” (Act I) and “Il mio tesoro” (Act II). Donna Anna’s nobility—and perhaps her intransigence—are well reflected in her major arias, “Or sai chi l’onore” in Act I and “Non mi dir” in Act II. The buffoonish (yet astute) Leporello is funny throughout the opera, but his Act I aria “Madamina, il catalogo è questo” (the “Catalogue” aria) is also a towering example of the melding of words and music. Donna Elvira’s Act II aria, “Mi tradi quell’alma ingrata,” contains extravagant leaps and runs that express the emotions of a person barely holding on to her mental stability. All of these psychological archetypes face off and interact in ensembles that are graceful on the surface but remarkably complex at their core.

Don Giovanni at the Met
Don Giovanni appeared at the Met in 1883 during the company’s first season. Victor Maurel, Verdi’s original Falstaff, portrayed the title character in several performances during the 1890s, and in 1908 Gustav Mahler conducted an impressive cast, including the legendary Russian bass Fyodor Chaliapin as Leporello. Mahler even played the harpsichord recitative accompaniment himself on a modified piano. The opera then fell out of the repertory until a new Joseph Urban–designed production appeared in 1929, conducted by Tullio Serafin and featuring the glamorous Italian bass Ezio Pinza in what would become his most celebrated role. Cesare Siepi took over for the subsequent generation. The great German conductor Karl Böhm made his company debut with this opera in 1957, leading 29 performances over the following decade. Met Music Director James Levine has conducted 61 performances to date, beginning in 1974. Great interpreters of the title role have included Sherrill Milnes, James Morris, Thomas Hampson, Ferruccio Furlanetto, and Samuel Ramey, the last two alternating with each other in the role of Leporello. Donna Anna has been performed by such great divas as Rosa Ponselle (beginning in 1929), Zinka Milanov (in the 1940s), Joan Sutherland (beginning in 1967), Leontyne Price, Renée Fleming, and Eleanor Steber (during the 1950s and 60s), who had previously made her mark as Donna Elvira. The opera has also showcased such diverse singers as Pilar Lorengar (Met debut as Donna Elvira, 1966), Kiri Te Kanawa, Karita Mattila, and Susan Graham (Elvira), Carol Vaness (Elvira and Anna), Ljuba Welitsch (Anna), Anna Netrebko (Anna and Zerlina), Kathleen Battle, Roberta Peters, Teresa Stratas, Frederica von Stade, Dawn Upshaw, and Bidu Sayão (Zerlina), Bryn Terfel (Giovanni and Leporello), René Pape and Paul Plishka (Leporello), Theodor Uppman (Masetto), and Nicolai Gedda, Beniamino Gigli, and Jan Peerce (Ottavio).
Mozart had experienced how much the Bohemians appreciated his music and how well they executed it,” wrote one of Mozart’s friends after the composer’s death. “This he often mentioned to his acquaintances in Prague, where a hero-worshipping, responsive public and real friends carried him, so to speak, on their shoulders.” Mozart must have loved his time in Prague, finally getting the recognition he badly wanted and felt he deserved but never quite achieved in the more staid, aristocratic Vienna. His love affair with the Bohemian city began in January of 1787, a month or so after a production of Le Nozze di Figaro—which had premiered to only modest success in Vienna earlier in 1786—had opened and taken Prague by storm. The opera orchestra and some wealthy admirers of the work paid for Mozart to visit, and he was amazed at what he found:

I was very delighted to look upon all these people leaping about in sheer delight to the music of my Figaro, adapted for noisy contra-dances and waltzes; for here nothing is discussed but Figaro; nothing is played, blown, sung, or whistled but Figaro; no opera is succeeding but Figaro and eternally Figaro; certainly a great honor for me.

Mozart brought with him on his visit the newly completed Symphony No. 38, which he had written in the city’s honor, and this too met with tremendous enthusiasm from the public and enjoyed repeated performances. Unfortunately, he was able to soak up the adoration in Prague for less than a month before returning to Vienna, but he left with a commission in hand for another opera—this time one that would have its premiere in Prague. The new opera was to become Don Giovanni.

Myths and legends about the composition of Don Giovanni abound, chief among them that the music was written in an impossibly short amount of time in the few weeks leading up to its October 1787 premiere. And as with most such tales, there is a kernel of truth in the story. Mozart—always known for his frenzied work rate—wrote much of the recitative as well as some of the comical scenes in the weeks preceding the premiere. Most amazing—and most oft-referenced—is that he wrote the overture truly at the last moment, either the day before or the day of the opening, so that the instrumental parts were barely able to be copied in time. But these were the items that Mozart always saved for last when composing operas; the major arias and ensemble numbers had been in the works for months, since shortly after his return to Vienna in February. Mozart accomplished many seemingly miraculous feats, but even he could not have written, rehearsed, and produced a work such as Don Giovanni in three weeks’ time. It is impressive enough that he was able to write it in less than a year, despite also turning out three quintets, a sonata, and the divertimentos Ein musikalischer Spass (“A Musical Joke”) and the famous Eine kleine Nachtmusik—not to mention dealing with the news of his father’s death—during the same span.

Mozart did the sensible thing and approached Lorenzo Da Ponte, the librettist with whom he had collaborated to such great success on Le Nozze di Figaro, as a partner for Don Giovanni. And though many scholars have argued that Da Ponte’s libretto for Don Giovanni is dramatically a bit of a mess, only saved by Mozart’s transcendent music, it is important to acknowledge that the Italian playwright was working with a very difficult and complex subject. The Don Juan myth had been the subject of numerous literary, dramatic, musical, philosophical, and popular interpretations, each with its own angle and varying details. To tackle such a well-known subject at a significant length (enough to support a full-length opera), sustain dramatic tension, and provide a text that lends itself to music is no mean feat. In its knitting together of so many different ideas and influences, it is true that the Don Giovanni libretto does not have the surgical precision and seamless construction of Da Ponte's text for Figaro. But in sacrificing those attributes, it allows greater freedom. It offers more opportunity for the music to be the decisive voice, making the connections and filling in the gaps left by the text—an opportunity Mozart seized to the fullest.

By this time, the composer had completely left all of his contemporaries and his younger self behind and was turning out masterpiece after masterpiece as if he were incapable of anything else—and perhaps he was. The music of Don Giovanni is a wonder, at once both an apotheosis of 18th-century Italianate opera and a startling premonition of Romanticism, Wagnerian music drama, and even the psychological dramas of the 20th century. Mozart's most forward-looking work, Don Giovanni was unsurprisingly the work most appreciated by the composers of the next century. As the great critic Harold Schonberg wrote, “It is the most Romantic of Mozart's operas, just as it is the most serious, the most powerful, and the most otherworldly…. Mozart was constantly misunderstood by the nineteenth century. He was called the Raphael of music, and was considered an elegant, dainty rococo composer who just happened to have composed Don Giovanni.” Though operagoers, musicians, and scholars will never tire of debating which of Mozart's operas is the “greatest,” this is certainly one of his most widely loved, even today.

But if Don Giovanni is Mozart's most enduring and popular opera, it is also his most ambiguous and difficult to interpret. In his own catalog, Mozart labeled the work an opera buffa, or comic opera. But it is difficult to accept that this tale of obsessive promiscuity, infidelity, sexual assault, murder, and the dragging of the protagonist into the yawning mouth of hell is purely a light-hearted, humorous work. Yet there are moments of genuine comedy, and since the impetus for its composition was a commission specifically for a follow-up to Le Nozze di Figaro, Mozart was surely sensitive to the expectation of levity. Da Ponte called Don Giovanni a dramma giocoso (a work that combines serious roles with comic ones). This seems closer to the mark, but the fact that the distinction is based on the combination of serious and comic roles brings up the most important reason for the opera's ambiguity. The tone of Don Giovanni is wholly dependent on the production and the singers' interpretations of their parts. The title character can be played as a debonair, confident “bad boy” who seduces his women and the audience into ignoring his dark side. Or he can be played as a vile and violent criminal who rapes and kills to get what he wants. Likewise, Donna Elvira can be a tragic and pitiable shell of a woman, driven mad as she's strung along by the cruel don, or she can be a humorous caricature, her outbursts made so broad and outsized that they become ridiculous. And so on. For this reason, perhaps more than any other opera, Don Giovanni is different with each production. No matter how many times you see it, you never really “know” it, and so it draws you back again and again. —Jay Goodwin
The Cast and Creative Team

Louis Langrée
CONDUCTOR (MULHOUSE, FRANCE)

THIS SEASON
Don Giovanni and La Bohème at the Met; Eugene Onegin, Le Nozze di Figaro, and La Clemenza di Tito at the Vienna State Opera; and orchestral engagements with symphony orchestras in São Paulo, Detroit, St. Louis, and Baltimore.

MET APPEARANCES
Iphigénie en Tauride (debut, 2007) and Hamlet.

CAREER HIGHLIGHTS
Recent engagements include debuts last season with the Vienna State Opera (La Bohème) and Vienna Philharmonic at the Salzburg Mozart Week. He also recently led Pelléas et Mélisande in Paris and London with the Orchestre de Paris and La Traviata at the Aix-en-Provence Festival with the London Symphony Orchestra. He has been music director of Lincoln Center’s Mostly Mozart Festival since 2002 and was music director of the Lyon Opera from 1998 to 2000 and the Glyndebourne Touring Opera from 1998 to 2003. He has also conducted at La Scala, Covent Garden, Lyric Opera of Chicago, Dresden State Opera, and Paris’s Bastille Opera and Théâtre des Champs-Élysées.

Michael Grandage
DIRECTOR (LONDON, ENGLAND)

THIS SEASON
Don Giovanni for his debut at the Met, a revival of Evita on Broadway, and Le Nozze di Figaro for the Glyndebourne Festival Opera.

CAREER HIGHLIGHTS
He completes his tenure as artistic director of London’s Donmar Warehouse this winter, where his work has included King Lear (which was also seen in New York last season at the Brooklyn Academy of Music), Madame de Sade, Twelfth Night, The Chalk Garden, Don Juan in Soho, Othello, The Wild Duck, Guys and Dolls, Grand Hotel, The Cut, After Miss Julie, Caligula (Olivier Award for Best Director), Merrily We Roll Along, Privates On Parade, and Passion Play. Three of his Donmar productions have transferred to Broadway: Frost/Nixon, Hamlet with Jude Law, and Red (for which he won the Tony Award for Best Director). From 1999 to 2005 he was the artistic director of Sheffield Theatres, where his many productions included Don Carlos (Evening Standard Award for Best Director). He made his operatic directing debut in 2010 with Billy Budd at the Glyndebourne Festival, followed by Madama Butterfly for Houston Grand Opera.
Christopher Oram
SET AND COSTUME DESIGNER (LONDON, ENGLAND)

THIS SEASON  Don Giovanni for his Met debut, Le Nozze di Figaro for the Glyndebourne Festival Opera, and a revival of Evita on Broadway.
CAREER HIGHLIGHTS  He is a frequent collaborator with director Michael Grandage and his work for London’s Donmar Warehouse includes The 25th Annual Putnam County Spelling Bee, Passion, Red (for which he won a Tony Award for the Broadway production), A Streetcar Named Desire, Hamlet (also in London’s West End and on Broadway), Madame de Sade, Twelfth Night, Ivanov, Othello, Parade (also at Los Angeles’s Mark Taper Forum), Frost/Nixon (also on the West End and on Broadway), Guys and Dolls, Don Juan in Soho, Grand Hotel, Henry IV, World Music, Caligula, The Vortex, Privates on Parade, Merrily We Roll Along, Passion Play, Good, The Bullet, and Power (Olivier Award). Additional work includes A View from the Bridge (Duke of York’s), King Lear and The Seagull (Royal Shakespeare Company), Evita (Adelphi), Finding the Sun and Marriage Play, Power, Summerfolk, Danton’s Death (National), Madama Butterfly (Houston Grand Opera), and Billy Budd (Glyndebourne Opera).

Paule Constable
LIGHTING DESIGNER (BRIGHTON, ENGLAND)

THIS SEASON  Anna Bolena, Don Giovanni, and Satyagraha at the Met, Così fan tutte for the Los Angeles Opera, and Le Nozze di Figaro at Glyndebourne.
MET PRODUCTIONS  Satyagraha (debut, 2008).
CAREER HIGHLIGHTS  She received the 2011 Tony Award for the Broadway production of War Horse and received Olivier Awards for Don Carlos at London’s Gielgud Theatre, His Dark Materials at the National Theatre, and The Chalk Garden at the Donmar Warehouse. Operatic engagements include Carmen, Faust, Rigoletto, Le Nozze di Figaro, Die Zauberflöte, and Macbeth for Covent Garden; Die Meistersinger von Nürnberg, Billy Budd, Giulio Cesare, Carmen, La Bohème, and Rusalka at Glyndebourne; Idomeneo, Satyagraha, and Peter Grimes for English National Opera; and Monteverdi’s L’Incoronazione di Poppea, Semele, and Agrippina for Paris’s Théâtre des Champs-Élysées. She just completed David McVicar’s production of Wagner’s Ring cycle in Strasbourg and Tristan und Isolde in Tokyo.
The Cast and Creative Team CONTINUED

Ben Wright
CHOREOGRAPHER (BRIGHTON, ENGLAND)

THIS SEASON Don Giovanni for his Met debut and Le Nozze di Figaro for the Glyndebourne Opera.

CAREER HIGHLIGHTS In 2008 he founded the contemporary dance company bgroup and has since created a number of works for them. Recent operatic credits include Prokofiev’s Betrothal in a Monastery for the Toulouse Opera and Paris’s Opéra Comique; The Cunning Little Vixen and Rigoletto for Grange Park Opera; La Donna del Lago for Garsington Opera; Don Giovanni for Scottish Opera; Janáček’s The Adventures of Mr. Brouček, A Midsummer Night’s Dream, and Roméo et Juliette for Opera North; and La Vie Parisienne, La Fanciulla del West, Macbeth, Faust, and Jake Heggie’s Dead Man Walking for Malmö Opera. He has also provided choreography for Twelfth Night at the Donmar Warehouse, Tobias and the Angel and The red and brown Water for The Young Vic, and for dance companies including VERVE, Skânes Dance Theater, and Ludis Dance. As a performer, he created the Prince in Matthew Bourne’s Swan Lake in 1995, performing throughout the UK, in London’s West End, and on Broadway.

Mojca Erdmann
SOPRANO (HAMBURG, GERMANY)

THIS SEASON Zerlina in Don Giovanni for her debut and the Woodbird in Siegfried at the Met, the title role of Lulu and Ariadne in the German premiere of Wolfgang Rihm’s Dionysos at the Berlin State Opera, and concert engagements at Amsterdam’s Concertgebouw, Salzburg’s Mozart Week, and with the Bamberg Symphony Orchestra and Cologne Philharmonie.

CAREER HIGHLIGHTS The title role of Mozart’s Zaïde and Zelmira in Haydn’s Armida at the Salzburg Festival, Blondchen in Die Entführung aus dem Serail in Amsterdam, the Woodbird at the Aix-en-Provence Festival and Salzburg Easter Festival, Sophie in Der Rosenkavalier in Stuttgart, Despina in Così fan tutte and Zerlina in Baden-Baden, Pamina in Die Zauberflöte in Cologne, and Marzelline in Fidelio in Nice. She has also sung in the world premiere of Tōru Takemitsu’s My Way of Life at the Berlin State Opera; the title role in Rihm’s Proserpina in 2009 with the Stuttgart Radio Symphony in Schwetzingen, Germany; and the world premiere of Dionysos at the 2010 Salzburg Festival.
Barbara Frittoli
SOPRANO (MILAN, ITALY)

THIS SEASON Donna Elvira in Don Giovanni at the Met, Amelia in Simon Boccanegra with the Vienna State Opera and Zurich Opera, Mimi in La Bohème at Covent Garden, Alice Ford in Falstaff in Zurich, and the title role of Adriana Lecouvreur in Barcelona.

MET APPEARANCES The title roles of Suor Angelica and Luisa Miller, Amelia, Micaëla in Carmen (debut, 1995), Fiordiligi in Così fan tutte, Desdemona in Otello, and the Verdi Requiem.

CAREER HIGHLIGHTS Recent performances include the Verdi Requiem on tour with Daniel Barenboim in Milan, Paris, and Moscow, the Countess in Le Nozze di Figaro at Munich’s Bavarian State Opera, Mimi with the Turin Opera (both in Turin and on tour in Japan), Fiordiligi and Desdemona with the Vienna State Opera, and Suor Angelica at La Scala. She has also sung Liù in Turandot with Barcelona’s Liceu, Desdemona in Munich, Elisabeth in Don Carlo and Donna Elvira in Florence, and Violetta in La Traviata with the Vienna State Opera.

Marina Rebeka
SOPRANO (RIGA, LATVIA)

THIS SEASON Donna Anna in Don Giovanni at the Vienna State Opera, Lyric Opera of Chicago, Zurich Opera, and for her debut at the Met, Violetta in La Traviata at the Deutsche Oper Berlin, and Anaï in Rossini’s Moïse et Pharaon with the Collegiate Chorale for her Carnegie Hall debut.

CAREER HIGHLIGHTS Anaï for her 2009 debut at the Salzburg Festival, conducted by Riccardo Muti, followed by debuts in 2010 at Covent Garden as Violetta and the Deutsche Oper Berlin as Donna Anna. She has also sung Britten’s War Requiem with the Royal Scottish National Orchestra, Micaëla in Carmen in Baden-Baden and Valencia, the Countess di Folleville and Madama Cortese in Il Viaggio a Reims and Anna in Maometto II at Pesaro’s Rossini Opera Festival, the Countess di Folleville for her debut at La Scala, and Adina in L’Elisir d’Amore with the Latvian National Opera. In recent seasons she has appeared as Violetta at the Vienna Volksoper, Agilea in Handel’s Teseo with Berlin’s Komische Oper, and Elettra in Idomeneo at the Opéra National de Lorraine in Nancy.

Joshua Bloom
BASS (MELBOURNE, AUSTRALIA)

THIS SEASON Masetto in Don Giovanni at the Met and Figaro in Le Nozze di Figaro with Opera Australia and at the Garsington Opera.
MET APPEARANCES  Masetto (debut, 2008) and Truffaldin in Ariadne auf Naxos.
CAREER HIGHLIGHTS Recent performances include Alidoro in La Cenerentola at the Garsington Opera and Schaunard in La Bohème, Guglielmo in Così fan tutte, Figaro, Escamillo in Carmen, Leporello in Don Giovanni, and Rodolfo in La Sonnambula with Opera Australia. He was an Adler Fellow with the San Francisco Opera and has appeared in a number of roles, including Garibaldo in Rodelinda, Angelotti in Tosca, Count Ribbing in Un Ballo in Maschera, and the Black Politician in the United States premiere of Ligeti’s Le Grand Macabre. He has also appeared in concert with the Los Angeles Philharmonic and New York Philharmonic.

Štefan Kocán
BASS (TMAVA, SLOVAKIA)

THIS SEASON  The Commendatore in Don Giovanni at the Met and Masetto in Don Giovanni at La Scala and with the Berlin State Opera.
MET APPEARANCES  The King in Aida (debut, 2009), Sparafucile in Rigoletto, Ferrando in Il Trovatore, and the Grand Inquisitor in Don Carlo with the company on tour in Japan.
CAREER HIGHLIGHTS Padre Guardiano in La Forza del Destino, the Grand Inquisitor, and Banquo in Macbeth at the Vienna State Opera, Osmin in Die Entführung aus dem Serail with Munich’s Bavarian State Opera, Sarastro in Die Zauberflöte in Cologne, Zaccaria in Nabucco in Graz, the Grand Inquisitor in Hanover and Copenhagen, the Commendatore in Essen, Osmin in Basel, and Gremin in Eugene Onegin in Tokyo. He has also appeared with the Royal Danish Opera, Bratislava Opera, and at Barcelona’s Liceu.

Mariusz Kwiecien
BARITONE (KRAKÓW, POLAND)

THIS SEASON  Belcore in L’Elisir d’Amore and Don Giovanni at the Met; Rodrigo in Don Carlo at Munich’s Bavarian State Opera; Don Giovanni in Warsaw, Tokyo, and in concert with the Los Angeles Philharmonic; the title role of Szymanowski’s King Roger with the Santa Fe Opera; and Count Almaviva in Le Nozze di Figaro in Kraków.
MET APPEARANCES  Dr. Malatesta in Don Pasquale, Enrico in Lucia di Lammermoor, Guglielmo in Così fan tutte, Escamillo in Carmen, Kuligin in Káťa Kabanová (debut, 1999), Silvio in Pagliacci, Haly in L’Italiana in Algeri, and Count Almaviva.
CAREER HIGHLIGHTS Don Giovanni at the Vienna State Opera, Covent Garden, Bavarian State Opera, San Francisco Opera, Seattle Opera, and Santa Fe Opera; Eugene Onegin with the Bavarian State Opera, Bolshoi Opera, Lyric Opera of Chicago, and in Warsaw; Count Almaviva at Covent Garden, the Bavarian State Opera, Glyndebourne Opera, and in Chicago and Madrid; and King Roger with the Paris Opera and in Madrid.
Luca Pisaroni
BASS-BARITONE (CIUDAD BOLIVAR, VENEZUELA)

THIS SEASON  Leporello in Don Giovanni and Caliban in The Enchanted Island at the Met and Argante in Rinaldo for his debut with the Lyric Opera of Chicago.

MET APPEARANCES  Figaro in Le Nozze di Figaro and Publio in La Clemenza di Tito (debut, 2005).

CAREER HIGHLIGHTS  Recent performances include Figaro with the San Francisco Opera, Paris Opera, and Vienna State Opera, Count Almaviva in Le Nozze di Figaro with Houston Grand Opera, Guglielmo in Cosi fan tutte at the Glyndebourne Festival, Papageno in Die Zauberflöte at the Théâtre des Champs-Élysées, and Melisso in Handel’s Alcina at Paris’s Bastille Opera. He has also sung Tiridate in Handel’s Radamisto with the Santa Fe Opera, the King in Ariodante at the Theater an der Wien, the title role of Cavalli’s Ercole Amante with the Netherlands Opera, Papageno in Die Zauberflöte at Paris’s Bastille Opera, Alidoro in La Cenerentola in Santiago, Publio at the Aix-en-Provence Festival, and Achilla in Giulio Cesare in Brussels.

Ramón Vargas
TENOR (MEXICO CITY, MEXICO)

THIS SEASON  Don Ottavio in Don Giovanni at the Met, Nemorino in L’Elisir d’Amore at the Vienna State Opera, Hoffmann in Les Contes d’Hoffmann at La Scala, Alfredo in La Traviata with Munich’s Bavarian State Opera, and Rodolfo in La Bohème for his debut at Barcelona’s Liceu.

CAREER HIGHLIGHTS  He has sung in all the major theaters of the world. Highlights include the French version of Don Carlos in Vienna, Rodolfo in Luisa Miller in Paris and Munich, Idomeneo in Salzburg and Paris, and Riccardo in Un Ballo in Maschera at Florence, Houston, London, Paris, San Francisco, and Munich. He has also sung des Grieux in Manon and Roberto Devereux in Vienna; Werther in Los Angeles, Vienna, and Madrid; Oronte in I Lombardi and Lensky in Florence; and Don Ottavio and Alfredo at Covent Garden.
A Conversation with Fabio Luisi

On the eve of the 2011–12 season, the maestro spoke with Met radio announcer Margaret Juntwait about becoming Principal Conductor—and stepping in on short notice to conduct two of opera’s greatest masterpieces, back to back.

Just before the start of the season, you were elevated from Principal Guest Conductor to Principal Conductor. Congratulations! Thank you. It was very sudden and quite surprising for me, because the news that James Levine had to withdraw from his performances [because of a fall] was somewhat of a shock. I’m very sorry for Jimmy, and my thoughts are with him. But working in this house is a joy. The musical and theatrical level is so high—higher than I’ve experienced in other houses. And in my new position, the musicians and I will work together even more closely and be even more connected than before.

You are conducting the new production of Don Giovanni on short notice. Does it help that this is such a well-known piece? Absolutely. I have known Don Giovanni since my childhood—but I am always trying to explore new aspects of it. To keep it fresh, you have to convince the singers and the orchestra to think that we are performing it for the first time. Forget about everything you have learned before, and try to have a fresh look—like a child who is hearing it for the first time.

Don Giovanni is such a rich piece musically. Is there any part of it that is especially challenging for you as the conductor? Well, Don Giovanni is one of the most perfect operas ever composed, which doesn’t make it any less challenging, because in Mozart every note has meaning. It’s like Wagner or Strauss in that way. So it’s important to make sure that all of the performers are very, very closely connected to the score.

Shortly after Don Giovanni opens, you will step into Maestro Levine’s shoes to conduct the new production of Siegfried. Do these operas complement each other at all, or will it be a complete switch? Well, music is always complementary. If you play Monteverdi, you find connections with Puccini, for example. And if you play Mozart, you find connections with Wagner. Wagner was educated with the Classical music of Beethoven, Mozart, and Haydn. So there are very, very strong links, and we shouldn’t ignore them. Nevertheless, Siegfried comes from another era. It is in another language and it is quite different.

Of course, you’re very familiar with the Ring operas. When you’re leading Siegfried, do you have the other three in mind? Of course. Mainly I have the proportions of the other operas in mind, which is very important for the Ring. These are not four different individual operas—it’s one big opera stretched over four nights. And, actually, you can understand the dimension of Siegfried or Götterdämmerung only if you understand the dimension of Rheingold, only if you understand the construction of Walküre. So jumping in, as I am, right in the middle with Siegfried—it’s quite challenging and exciting!