

PHILOSOPHICAL CHAIRS

Active listening, critical thinking, and respectful dialogue are learned skills: Everyone can acquire them, and no one can perfect them without practice. Philosophical Chairs is designed to help us develop these skills while also learning about opera.

You might find these statements challenging—and you might find it challenging to talk with someone whose views differ from your own. That’s the point! Take your time with each statement, embrace uncertainty, and know that changing your mind as you learn new information is a sign of strength. Before you begin your discussion, take some time to review the rules of engagement:

Be sure you understand the statement. If something is unclear, ask!

Face each other. Body language helps show that you’re listening.

Only one speaker at a time. Everyone will get their turn to speak.

Think before you speak. Be sure that what you’re going to say is what you really mean, and remember that we can disagree while still being kind.

Summarize the previous person’s comments before adding your own. This will show that you have heard their thoughts and are responding thoughtfully to what they said. It will also help avoid misunderstandings and faulty assumptions.

Address ideas, not the person. Challenging ideas or statements is great—but only if we respect the individuality and inherent value of the person who expressed them.

Three before me. After you’ve spoken, you may not make another comment until three others have shared their thoughts.

THE STATEMENTS

- Nothing is more powerful than love.
- Promises must always be kept.
- Love can blind you to the consequences of your actions.
- Logic will always lead to the right decision.
- Ties between family members can never be broken.
- Revenge is a good way to resolve conflicts.
- Parents have a moral obligation to protect their children.
- Presentiments come in many different forms.
- You should always listen to your intuition.
- Ancient mythology has no relevance to the modern world.
- Your past will always follow you.
- Every story has a moral.
- Greek gods always demonstrate good behavior.
- The end always justifies the means.